

MEDIA RELEASE

13 August 2026

Insurance and construction specialist Natasha Stojanovich joins Meridian Lawyers

National law firm Meridian Lawyers has appointed insurance and construction litigator Natasha Stojanovich as a Principal Lawyer and Co-Practice Group Leader of its Professional and Financial Risks Group, based in Melbourne.

Natasha has more than 15 years' experience defending complex professional indemnity claims, including matters involving non-compliant building products and flammable cladding. She acts for Australian and London insurers, reinsurers, listed and multinational companies, statutory authorities, government departments and councils.

Her practice covers disputes involving architects, engineers, building surveyors, builders, valuers and real estate agents, and includes defending professionals in disciplinary proceedings, advising on complex liability matters and insurance recovery matters.

She has run matters in the Federal, Supreme and County Courts, VCAT, defended class actions, and is ranked by Best Lawyers (Construction/Infrastructure and Insurance, 2026), The Asia Pacific Legal 500 (Insurance) and Doyle's Guide (Construction and Insurance).

Commenting on the appointment, Meridian's Managing Director Paul Baker said Natasha's arrival further strengthens the firm's national insurance offering:

"Natasha's appointment adds significant depth to our Professional and Financial Risks Group and extends the support we provide to clients in areas of increasing complexity and demand."

"We are delighted to welcome Natasha to Meridian and to our Principal group. She is a highly regarded practitioner whose technical expertise, client-focused approach and energy align strongly with our commitment to delivering quality advice and practical, commercially focused solutions."

"Natasha's appointment is an important step in continuing to broaden Meridian's profile and capability in the professional risks space."

Natasha joins Meridian on 31 August and will be based in Melbourne. She will join Principal Lawyers Marcus O'Brien, Robert Crittenden, Stephanie Weeks, Matthew Pokarier, Jacinta Long and Cameron Solley as part of the senior leadership team for Meridian's national Professional and Financial Risks Group.
